

Trustees Give Facts On Revenue Increase Election

Facing a May 27 revenue increase election, trustees of the Yorba Linda Elementary School Board released a statement early this week on reasons for the proposed tax hike.

The revenue limit increase, as proposed, would raise the tax rate from $2.37 for each $100 of assessed property valuation to $3.24, an increase of 87 cents.

According to the board's statement the added revenue would permit the board to maintain a basic program for all students and place Yorba Linda's program at average when compared to programs in Orange County's other 14 elementary school districts. The hike would increase annual per pupil expenditure from approximately $894 to $1,033. As it now stands, Yorba Linda's per pupil expenditure is far below county average. Compared with 14 other elementary school districts in Orange County, Yorba Linda's per pupil expenditure ranks second to the bottom on the list.

Under present State finance laws, Yorba Linda is scheduled to receive approximately six per cent in additional State and local dollars to operate its schools for the 1975-1976 school year. In the face of double digit inflation, the projected increase will not meet expenditure requirements for a basic program.

The issue is further clouded by the fact that even if Yorba Linda's tax rate were at the county average, the average per pupil income would still be below average. "Yorba Linda is a bedroom community with little commercial and manufacturing property, therefore, the assessed valuation behind each child is only $17,070, while the average assessed valuation behind each child in Orange County Elementary Districts is $22,717," the board noted.

If the election fails, general budget cuts would have to be made in existing programs. Areas affected include:

- Transportation.
- Loss of curriculum services (library supplies, texts and learning materials.)
- An increase of class size from 30 to 35 pupils.
- Elimination of all new equipment purchases.

--A reduction of maintenance and custodial services.

--Loss of elective subjects currently offered to seventh and eighth grade students.

A series of informational meetings on the proposed tax override has been scheduled by trustees of the Yorba Linda Elementary School District.

Meeting times and places are: April 21, 7:30 p.m. at Mabel Paine School; April 22, 7:30 p.m. at Rose Drive School; April 23, 7:30 p.m. at the Junior High School on Casa Loma; and April 24, 7:30 p.m. at Richard Nixon School.

Deflation Campaign Continues

There is great hope that nearly 10,000 Yorba Linda autos will soon be sporting those new bumper stickers which read, "Fight Inflation With Deflation—Yorba Linda Style." Says the Chamber of Commerce, "If the people of this City will cooperate, not only will they boost retail sales here, but they will be publicizing our City's Deflation (cost reduction) campaign outside of town...and inviting folks to come in and visit us...and buy from Yorba Linda shops for a change," urged President J. Elton Patridge.

The Chamber office and the Yorba Linda Star office have the new stickers for sale at a dime each, (actual production cost). Soon, many local merchants and services will offer them to patrons, beginning with Chalet Wines & Spirits at 19768 Yorba Linda Blvd.; Sheffield's Upholstery, 18401 Arroyo; Yorba Linda TV, 19669 Yorba Linda Blvd.; Villa Cleaners, 19605 Yorba Linda Blvd.; Norm Lytal, 18107 Imperial Hwy.; Richard Aden, 18107 Imperial; Alpha Beta Markets, 17506 Yorba Linda Blvd.; Von's Market, 19651 Yorba Linda Blvd.

"You will be doing yourself a great favor by adding a Deflation sticker or two to your car...and leaving it on until at least May 31, added the Chamber's Opydye. "What it means is that you'll be helping all of us to bring prices down in Yorba Linda and push sales volume up! For the full story of how this works in our American economic scene, visit our office soon: full public cooperation is sorely needed for the next 7 or 8 weeks.

Bomb Threats Plague Schools Here

Spring fever, if it's nothing more than that, is taking an odd turn in Yorba Linda. Last week somebody who sounded a lot like a schoolboy called in bomb threats to three city schools.

On Thursday, at 1:15 p.m., Nixon School got the first call. Three minutes later, the caller called back to repeat himself. Maybe he had lost his place.

Fifteen minutes later, a threat was phoned in to Rose Drive School. Principal Janet MacLean called a fire drill, and the Yorba Linda Fire Department responded.

Then on Friday, shortly before 12:30 p.m., a threat was received at Yorba Linda Junior High School.

No bombs were found at any of the schools.

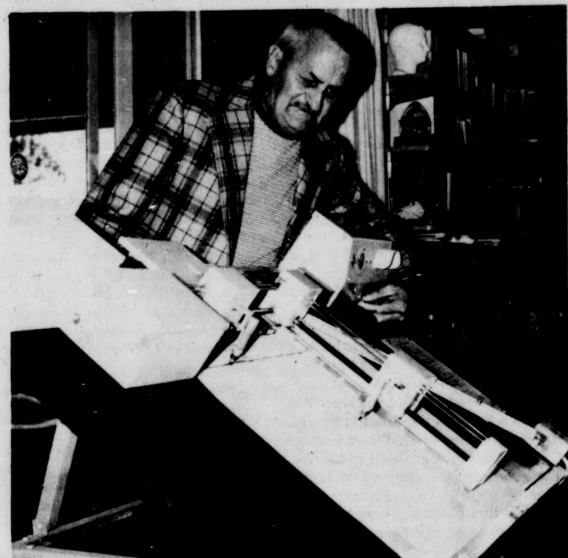

Police are examining a list of absentee students.

Law Suit Threatened

A 33 year old error in a county record of survey set the stage this week for a heated boundary dispute between a Yorba Linda businessman and the County of Orange.

Most of the "heat" in the dispute is being generated by John Brewster, owner and manager of Brewster's Automotive, on Main Street in Yorba Linda. Irate because of recent changes to his property lines, Brewster is threatening to sue the county.

Brewster contends that a county

CAN PROVE IT—Yorba Linda's Otto Luther, who claims to have found errors in Einstein's Theory of Relativity, suggests that the world of science has been steeped in error for 80 years. The above apparatus helps prove his point, Luther says. Einstein, he explains, did not take into account the existence of transverse movement of light, as limited in the machine above, but only accounted for movement in one direction.

Yorba Lindan Claims Unified Field Theory

Discovery of the long-sought unified field theory is claimed by Otto Luther of Yorba Linda who has gained world-wide notice for his expressed opposition to relativity theories.

The Yorba Linda scientist explains that a unified field theory describes a common relationship among gravity, electricity and magnetism and would represent the highest degree of order in nature that has yet been discovered by man. "The theory is one in which a single equation accounts for uniform motion and accelerated motion," he stated.

In an exclusive interview with the Yorba Linda Star, Luther said, "Belief that two separated theories, the special theory of relativity and the general theory of relativity, are essential to the explanation of universal phenomena signaled the inapplicability of relativity theories."

A vocal opponent of Einstein's theory of relativity, Luther authored the 1966 publication "Relativity Is Dead," as well as the privately published "Return To Reason," in which he "tests how my thinking applies to modern physics." A third book, which will probably be titled "The Otto Luther File" is being readied for publication.

Luther notes that special relativity is an attempt to account mathematically for the phenomenon of uniform motion; general relativity is an attempt to account mathematically for accelerating motion or gravity. Instead, Luther claims that he has derived the single equation which accounts for all physical phenomenon within our universe.

Following 16 years of intensified study, (from 1958 to 1975), Luther rejected both special and general relativity theories, claiming that no sound base for their existence can be proved. Luther claims that his theory renders proofs of both special and general relativity invalid.

Luther points out that one example of the weakness of Einstein's general theory (gravity theory) is that Einstein posed an increase in gravitational force in the region of the sun. Einstein's equation $F = Gm^1m^2/d^2$ differs from Newton's equation $F = Gm^1m^2/d^2$, and is supposed to account for the unaccounted 43 seconds of arc shifting of the perihelion of mercury. In contrast Luther attributes the shift to a diminution of gravity in the region of the sun, and according to his theory the equation $F = Gm^1m^2/d^{1.99999984}$ applies.

Luther attributes all the energies and forces within our universe to electromagnetic radiation.

The 68 year old local man's interest in physics dates back to his high school years.

resurveying job in the Carlton tract on the northeast end of Yorba Linda has caused him considerable hardship.

According to Bob Wise of the county surveyors office, the resurvey of the area was made to correct an error that dates back to 1942. The resurvey job, said the county official, has been going on for the past nine months, and the error in question was discovered a year ago.

For the most part, hardship on the owners consists of shifting property lines, and resurveying lots.

Not so for John Brewster. The county job has caught him between wind and weather on his project to build new facilities for his growing auto repair business.

According to Brewster, the county's action has made it difficult to obtain clear title to his 'L' shaped property, north of Imperial on Second Street, and adjacent to Solesbee's Body Repair Shop. The action, Brewster said, halted

Clodt Ends Service With YL Volunteer Fire Dept.

The letter was short and to the point.

"Dear Mr. Clodt," it said in effect, "you're too old to fight fires any more, so as of March 31 you are retired."

That's the way it goes. One by one the years gather until one day they jump out in ambush. Fred Clodt, who had been a volunteer fireman for nearly 44 of his 70 years, would be one no more.

Now, instead, was the time for honors. The Orange County Board of Supervisors voted Clodt a commendation. So did the Yorba Linda City Council. On May 3 a party is to be held in recognition of his service, put on by the supervisors.

Unfortunately, a visitor get the feeling that Clodt, who looks at least 10 years younger than his age, who moves with an energy and agility a man with half his years might envy.

would rather fight fires.

"I was one of the original volunteers when the department was organized. Joe Sherman came into the county and organized the volunteer department up here."

The year was 1932. Sherman, who had been appointed California Division of Forestry ranger for Orange County, got together with some businessmen in Yorba Linda to talk about setting up a volunteer fire department.

It seemed like a good idea. The packing house on Yorba Linda Boulevard had burned to the ground a couple of years earlier.

"They already had a hose cart and a bell tower with a little housing place underneath for the hose cart. That was where Nixon Park is now, in the corner where the flagpole is. "Sherman came in with a Chevrolet touring car with a bunch of sacks and shovels. That was all they had."

Ten men, among them Clodt, volunteered to serve on the Yorba Linda Fire Department. Others were Roy Pritchard and Fred Earll, father of present chief Keith Earll. Stub Wilsey was the first fire chief.

Clodt had come to town in 1927, right after getting married. Born in South Dakota, he had come with his parents to Anaheim in 1914, where he had lived before his marriage.

"When we came to Anaheim, there were more horses than automobiles. There were still hitching posts along the main street, which is called Lincoln now but was Center Street then."

And Yorba Linda? "A beautiful place," he says, grinning. Fred Clodt grins easily and frequently.

Local Man Elected To College District Post

Salvador Zavala of Placentia was elected Tuesday as president of the North Orange County Community College District Board of Trustees.

Also elected during the annual organizational meeting at the District Education Center were Robert G. Hawthorne, Yorba Linda, vice president, and Richard D. Noble, Los Alamitos, secretary.

Zavala was active in the formation of the district in 1965 as a member of the Placentia Unified School District Board of Trustees. He was elected to the board in 1973 after being appointed to fill unexpired terms in 1968 and 1970. He was vice president of the board for 1974-75.

With his election as vice president, Hawthorne concluded two terms as secretary of the board. He has been a trustee since 1971.

Noble had been president of the board when he served from 1965 to 1969 as one of the first trustees of the then-new district. He also had been on the interim board that directed formation of the district. Noble rejoined the board last September when he was appointed to fill 10 months of an unexpired term. He was elected in March to fill the remaining two years of that term.

Local Youths Held In Auto Thefts

A small-scale auto-theft ring consisting of two Yorba Linda teenagers was broken up last week by a suspicious Placentia police officer.

About 11 p.m. last Tuesday Patrolman Mike Blair saw a car pull out of the lot at Fairway Ford, 1350 Yorba Linda Boulevard, Placentia. Since the business was closed at the time and since the auto dealerships along Yorba Linda there have been plagued recently by a rash of burglaries, Patrolman Blair thought he'd investigate. He drove up behind the VW bug and turned on his light.

The car immediately took off. Blair chased the small vehicle eastbound at high speed along Yorba Linda until, heading north on Santa Fe, the fugitive came to a dead end.

Undaunted, it crashed through a fence and struck out across a field, finally coming to rest after 50 feet upon hitting another fence, this one at the rear of someone's home. The driver got out and ran away, but Blair managed to collar three passengers.

They were male, Yorba Linda residents, ages 13, 13, & 15. The car, it turned out, had been reported stolen just a few hours earlier from a parking lot behind a townhouse complex at 4562 Valley View in Yorba Linda. The owner, Linda Procopio of Anaheim, had been visiting a friend there.

The Placentia PD called up Brea PD and asked if they wanted the culprits. Brea PD said yes.

Upon questioning, one of the 13-year-olds said that the escaped driver, a 16-year-old Yorba Linda boy, and the other 13-year-old had come by his home that night with the stolen car and asked him and his brother (the 15-year-old) if they wanted to go for a ride. They had gone.

He confided that he had known the car was stolen, but his brother said that he hadn't known. The younger boy also said that he and his brother had gone joy riding with the same two felons two days before, also in a stolen car, this one a green Mustang.

That Sunday one Ann Tutt had reported her green Mustang stolen. It had disappeared from the alley behind her home at 4540 Jamestown, Yorba Linda, only to turn up Tuesday morning with two flat tires on a horse trail alongside the old El Cajon canal south of Imperial Highway between Valley View and Casa Loma.

When asked, the other 13-year-old admitted he and the driver had stolen the VW by hot-wiring it. He also admitted taking the Mustang—but that, he explained, had been mostly the 16-year-old's doing.

By now Brea police officers wanted to talk to the 16-year-old pretty badly. Learning his identity from the others, they called his mother and asked her to bring him to the station. She said okay; but then she called right back to explain that her son had heard her on the phone and had gone away.

So next morning a couple of Brea cops went to the suspect's home.

Discussing things later at the station, the boy agreed substantially with what his colleague had confessed, except that in his account it was the 13-year-old who had hot-wired the Mustang Sunday night.

The 16-year-old was taken to juvenile hall. Petitions have been filed on the two 13-year-olds, who were released to their parents in the meantime.

aware of the change "until my work stopped, and I couldn't obtain my loan and couldn't obtain clear title to my land." The changes move Brewster's property about a foot and a half to the northwest.

"The thing that's so funny is that the error was made in 1942—why all of a sudden is it so important to resurvey the boundaries?"

Irate, Brewster claims he called third district Supervisor Ralph Diedrich and "got nowhere." "I asked for Diedrich, but it seems that construction on the site and could have jeopardized his building loan. The issue is further clouded by the fact that Brewster's construction site overlaps onto an existing building--Solesbee's Body Shop.

Brewster estimates that, counting construction delays, and the cost of resurveying, making up new grading plans and new street improvement plans will set him back by $1,000. "Everyday I wait is costing me more money," he said. Brewster claims that he was not he doesn't think he needs to talk to the taxpayers who put him in office. I just think that as a taxpayer, I'm entitled to talk to him, especially on something that involves as many people as this does," Brewster said. "It's time that government was for the people, by the people, not for the bureaucrats by the bureaucrats."

"If they don't settle this property soon, they're going to have a multi-million dollar law suit on their hands," he warned.

Brewster has two suggestions for "settling it."

First, the county could put the property lines back to where they were in 1942. Or, they could "absorb" the error into county lands by allowing the 60 foot streets in the area to take up the discrepancy. The streets would then be slightly reduced in width, and property owners could leave their boundaries as they have been since the 1942 general survey.

According to Diedrich's administrative assistant, Ray Rhoads, Brewster's first suggestion would be illegal, his second would be impossible.

Rhoads said that the error surfaced about a year ago as a result of a boundary study for a proposed tract on the northeast corner of the Carlton tract. County surveyors, called out to check boundaries on the property, found a discrepancy in the 1942 record of survey. According to Rhoads, the original general survey back in 1880 was correct. Once the error was found, the county is required by law to correct it—although no time frame for the resurvey is mandated. Thus the recent resurvey and Brewster's problem.

"He wants us to forget that error, but we can't do that," Rhoads said, "the law requires correction."

Rhoads also said that the idea of having county streets absorb the error would be "impractical if not impossible."

Rhoads explained that such a course of action would require the consent of all the owners in the affected area—and there are Carlton owners scattered all over the country. The early history of the Carlton townsite was as confusing as it was colorful. Lots were sold to 1890 buyers in a "package deal" along with a set of encyclopedias. The much advertised townsite then floundered due to lack of water.

"Many a dealer has gone out of his mind trying to get all the owners together on something," Rhoads stated.

Other major property owners in the area include Fullerton Union High School District, Hurless Barton, Solesbee, and Harold Van Patton.

Barton, owner of the site on which B and B Chevrolet is located, commented that county changes don't amount to too much," but added, "I don't see how they can penalize everyone. It's going to cost everyone a lot of money."

Brewster credits the city of Yorba Linda with "utmost cooperation" in what looks to be a costly problem for him. "They've been behind me 100 per cent, helping in any way they can."

Diedrich Named To SCAG Committee

Supervisor Ralph Diedrich of Orange County has been named as a member of the finance committee of the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), it was announced today.

Diedrich was one of seven Southland elected officials named to serve on the committee by SCAG president James Hayes.

Members of the finance committee, who were appointed to one year

Things were different in those days. Members of the fire department had to raise their own funds for insurance and equipment. That's the way their first rescuator was bought.

They also built a lot of their equipment, turning automobiles and trucks into fire wagons.

"The volunteers bought an old Studebaker touring car. They built that up into a fire truck. They put a pump on it and a hose and one thing and another. We used that for some time."

The first fire station in town was a metal shed across from the bell tower, located where the Texaco station stands in the triangle formed by Imperial Highway, Yorba Linda Boulevard and Main. Later it was moved to the corner of Valencia and Lemon, where a new fire station was built in 1947.

And the years passed. Fred Earl became fire chief, and later Clodt's turn came. In all, he served some 18 years as either chief or assistant chief.

And the passing years brought changes. Eventually the county began paying the department's bills and furnishing equipment, and the volunteers became part of the Orange County Fire Department. The state Division of Forestry opened a station on Lemon, built of lumber recovered from demolished army barracks.

And the volunteer department grew, eventually reaching a membership of 20. Now, with Clodt's loss and one other, it's back down to 18.

Even apart from his membership in the department, though, Fred Clodt was a part of the life and growth of Yorba Linda.

"I worked for the old Mutual Water Company for 15 years. Before that, I did a little grove work for Ralph Shook Sr. Then I had an orchard-care business for another 15 years. Then I worked off-and-on in construction; and I had a citrus ranch, too."

"I've been retired for a few years, now."

Nor was it only as a fireman that Clodt served the growing community. Local organizations to which he has belonged include the Orange County Farm Bureau, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Yorba Linda County Water District.

"I've been on the water district board of directors since the district was formed. I was on the old Mutual board at the time we formed the district. I was on that for about two years."

"They started building out here; and they couldn't borrow money fast enough under Mutual, so they transformed it into the water district."

election again in November.

In the neat living room of the attractive little white house on Valencia Street, Fred Clodt settles for a moment in an armchair to chat with a visitor. His wife is in the kitchen ironing. Beside him, on a television set, are pictures of four smiling youngsters—his grandchildren.

"We have two sons. The oldest has the two girls and the youngest has the two boys."

"Our oldest boy lives down in Valley Center. He just got a medical discharge from the Orange Fire Department. He was kiddin' me a while back. He said, 'Gee, Dad, I retired before you did.'"

Despite his retirement, Clodt manages to keep busy. He helps with custodial work at Zion Lutheran Church in Anaheim, which he has attended since 1914. And he has a house on Lake Havasu.

"We're on the California side. We watched them put in London Bridge (on the Arizona side). We can sit on our front porch over there and see it."

"Yeah, there's quite a few Yorba Lindans go to Havasu. Fishin's been so poor though that I haven't been enthused to go out there too much lately."

Holding a pipe that has appeared from nowhere, he describes an irony: "Ever since I retired, it seems like I get farther behind. My house needs paintin' pretty bad, and I haven't got it done." He laughs.

Planners Review Restaurant Plans

If all goes well, Yorba Linda's first restaurant is on its way. At its Monday night meeting, the city planning commission approved design review for Frisco's Gourmet House, to be built on the east side of Lakeview just south of Lemon.

Of Spanish-style architecture, the dining establishment will offer both indoor and outdoor tables as well as banquet facilities. Beer and wine will be served initially, with a cocktail lounge projected for the future.

At the same meeting, the commission approved, subject to design review, construction of a Pacific Telephone switching substation on the north side of Yorba Linda Boulevard west of Country Club Plaza Shopping center.

Reservations about the building were voiced by Arlene Hoffman, vice-president of Yorba Linda Knolls Country Townhouses Owners' Association. Speaking for persons who live north of the proposed site, Mrs. Hoffman requested ample landscaping be required to screen the rear of the two-story building from view.

Trees are already proposed to screen the building from the east and west.

Without opposing the station, commissioner Ann L. Capron called attention to what she termed the continued "spread of commercially oriented property down Yorba Linda Boulevard."

The planning commission also approved additions to the yet-to-be-built professional center set to go in behind Patton Plaza off Lakeview.

The additions consist of two small buildings which will lie to the west of the main building and a small addition on the eastern side of the main building. The main building and the development in general were approved by the commission last month.

The backers of the center, local professional men Roland Bigger, Quentin Goodman, Raymond Metzger, and Bob Meador, had originally proposed postponing the additions until some future date.

When occupied, the center is scheduled to include legal, dental, optometrist, orthodontist, appraiser and CPA offices.

In other action, the planning commission approved designs for a 15-lot residential development to be built by John Werten & Associates on the southeast corner of Yorba Linda Boulevard and Ohio Street and a 34-lot residential development to be built by Sunset of California Homes on the northeast corner of Highland and Buena Vista avenues.

Both developments are to incorporate horse trails, one on the west side of the Werten project along Ohio with a spur running eastbound into the center of the development and another on the east side of the Sunset project.

Adjustment Procedures Adjusted

The Yorba Linda city council Monday night adopted a change in the method of granting adjustments originally suggested by city planning staff and approved by the planning commission.

An amendment in the city's zoning ordinance, the measure reduces the amount of adjustment the planning department can grant without planning commission review, requires an applicant for an adjustment to submit a list of all persons owning property adjoining the affected property as well as any other persons required by the city planning director, requires mailed notification be sent to adjoining property owners in adjustments involving set-backs, and establishes bi-monthly public meetings to be held by the planning director to hear applications for adjustments.

An adjustment is a type of variance, less radical in nature and less costly.

In other action, the city council approved traffic committee recommendations that a 25-mph speed zone be established on El Cajon Avenue between Valley View and Prospect and that a traffic signal be installed on Imperial Highway at Casa Loma.

Pete Yoder Moves Into Coach Post

Peter Yoder, head football coach at Cal State Fullerton, has been named to head the Esperanza High School football coaching staff in the Placentia Unified School District next year.

He was chosen from 82 applicants for the job to build the new school's team, which tallied an 0-8-1 record in the first year of Orange League competition, according to Esperanza principal Dr. John Parrish.

Yoder, who has been at CSUF since 1972, has an 18-15 record there. Before going to Fullerton, he was an assistant coach in offensive backfield under John McKay at USC in 1966 and '71.

He compiled a 37-4-1 record in four years as head football coach at Blair High School in Pasadena, which included the 4A CIF championship in 1969 and the title of San Gabriel Valley Coach of the Year in 1966 and 1969.

Other coaching assignments have included Long Beach Poly High as offensive coordinator and Long Beach City College in 1962 when the team won the national junior college championship.

"We feel extremely fortunate to get a coach like Pete," Parrish said. "He's had the experience of building a team at a new school, and he more than qualified in the qualities we were looking for: positive attitude with students, experience and a winning record."

In addition to his coaching duties, Yoder will teach history on the Esperanza campus. He was graduated cum laude from Long Beach State University with a B.A. degree in history in 1962, and received his M.A. in education in 1964. He currently is enrolled in a doctoral program at USC.

The Esperanza Aztecs freelanced their first year in 1973, entering Orange League play last year with coach Dave Stout, who asked to be reassigned to an assistant coaching post this year.

The power of one vote was vividly demonstrated in the recent defeat of the Placentia Unified School District Bonds. School officials estimate unofficially that two more yes votes in each precinct would have passed the 20 million dollar bond issue. I feel a certain empathy with our die-hard, never-give-up school trustees who immediately voted to have another go at the ballot. The measure will be back before us on the May 27 ballot.

Open and Shut

Economically, I see it as an "open and shut" issue. If you vote for school bonds, you are in effect voting for higher property values. No knowledgeable person will deny that your home value and my home value is tied directly to the availability and quality of schools provided our children.

Thus far, we can be proud of the schools, teachers, administrators, school board trustees and employees. They are operating with less revenue per child than any other unified school district in Orange County. In addition, the District has had the monumental task of absorbing an average of 1,000 students every year since 1963, and the best estimates show an additional 4500 students entering our schools in the next five years.

To house these students four new elementary schools, one junior high, and one senior high school will be required. This basically is what you will be voting for or against on May 27. The Placentia Unified School District badly needs your support and, to be fair, they deserve it.

The beautiful part of this is that if the bonds are approved, our tax rate will not change. However, our indebtedness would be increased and extended to 1993, so those using the new schools will be helping to pay for them. That sounds good to me.

Opposition

Those opposing the bonds point to neighboring school districts with declining student enrollment and partially empty schools. This, they declare, is what will happen in Placentia. In 20 years, this may be the situation. In the meantime, it doesn't seem reasonable to put our children into makeshift portable classrooms, or worse, into double sessions. A good education is a birthright we ought to guarantee our youngsters—even if some of them are grumpy teenagers.

Free Bumper stickers

Your free school bond bumper stickers are available at our office at 128 S. Bradford in Placentia. If you believe in good schools as strongly as I do, come in today and get your free bumper banner. Remind your neighbors to vote for the bonds every time you drive down the street. You will be a good neighbor if you do!

Chamber Offers Increased Use Of Nixon Park

At its meeting on April 2, the Chamber's Board of Directors called for hopefully increased use of "Nixon Park", located between Yorba Linda Boulevard and Imperial Highway, adjacent to the City's Main Street.

"For some years, the Chamber has kept this lovely little facility in tip-top shape, but, now and then, a swing, slide or bar-be-que has grown tired and given up the ship," said the organization's Bill Opdyke. "But we get it repaired as fast as we can, with the cooperative help of some of our members, including Ron Cray of Yorba Linda Building Materials and the School Board's Francis Beaudett, who keeps the grass and the whole layout in good shape.

To avoid mix-ups with large groups or projects, the Chamber maintains a Calendar indicating major use of the park. For example, the Girl Scouts have the facility exclusively for three hours on Saturday, April 26. July 4th, the park is in the good hands all day of the Senior Citizens for an "Old-Fashioned Fourth of July Celebration" led and engineered by Councilman Whit Cromwell.

"Please call the Chamber well in advance of Park needs so that we can list Park users on our Registry. Consumption of alcoholic beverages cannot be permitted on the premises, and maximum consideration of all people's best interests are the only requisites for use of these park facilities," added Opdyke.

Lindow At Meeting

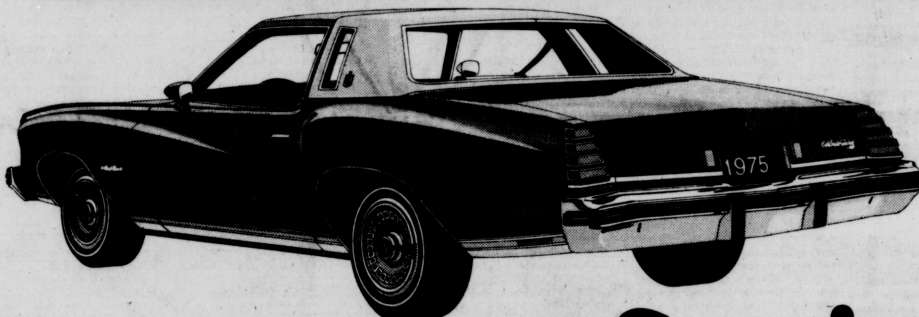

Howard Lindow, director of the Yorba Linda County Water District who spoke on "Facing the Cost of Water Quality" and Will Stokes of Los Virgenes Municipal Water District who spoke on "Facing the Human Elements."

The two day meeting, which concluded Friday, April 11, featured such speakers as George Buchanan of the Metropolitan Water District who spoke on "Facing the Cost of Water Quality" and Will Stokes of Los Virgenes Municipal Water District who spoke on "Facing the Human Elements."
